STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 8.—King Oscar has refused to receive the deputation appointed to notify him of Norway's withdrawal from the union with Sweden.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 8.—Prince Waldemar, youngest son of King Christian of Denmark is perhaps the likeliest candidate for the throne of Norway.

The Norwegians have, indeed, asked King Oscar of Sweden, to aid them in choosing a prince of the house of Bernadotte for crown. It is considered highly improbable, however, that Oscar will permit any member of his family to accept the place.

Should he do so the name of Prince Oscar Carl August, King Oscar's second son, would probably be first on the list. Prince Oscar, renounced his succession to the Swedish throne in 1888, that he might wed Miss Ebba Munk, a maid in waiting upon the Queen. He was born in 1859 and is generally known as Prince Bernadotte.

At present the Prince bears the title of Count of Wisborg and is an admiral in the Swedish navy. He is a deeply religious man and has caused considerable comment in his native land by taking part frequently as speaker at revival meetings of non-conformist denominations.

Another possible aspirant to the Norwegian throne is the eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden, named Gustavus Adolphus, after his father. The Prince, who was born in 1882, is popular in Norway, even though the Crown Prince is not. He is a lieutenant in the Svea Life Guards and the Crown Prince's Hussars and also an officer of the Norwegian Guards. He is betrothed to the eldest daughter of the Duke of Connaught, Princess Margaret Victoria. They are to be married June 17.

Some persons closely in touch with European diplomatic circles on the Norwegian question, it is not considered unlikely that in the interest of the peace of Europe, the powers may insist upon the reference of all the differences between Sweden and Norway to The Hague Tribunal.

The question of separate consulates has only been one of many differences between Sweden and Norway. The consular question, which preceded the consular conflict, and which was settled in 1899 by the Norwegian Ruling Council, on the Norwegian consular question, the law removing from the Norwegian merchant flag the union jack, the symbol of the union with Sweden, was another step toward separation.

The union between Sweden and Norway dates from 1814, when by the treaty of Kiel, Denmark was compelled to cede Norway to Sweden. The King of Denmark, however, did not recognize the cession and declared himself independent, convening a constituent assembly at Elsinore May 1, 1814, when a constitution was adopted and the Danish Prince, Christian Frederick, was elected King of Norway.

A Swedish army invaded Norway, and the power remained with the King of Sweden. The union of Norway as an independent nation with Sweden was determined upon and finally ratified Nov. 8, 1814.

King Oscar is the fourth King of the house of Bernadotte, which was founded by Jean Baptiste Bernadotte, a French marshal of Napoleon I, who became Minister of War in 1810. He was elected Crown Prince of Sweden in 1810, commanded the Army of the North against Napoleon I, and, as Charles XIV, became King of Sweden and Norway in 1818.

He died in 1844 and was succeeded by his only son, Oscar I. On the death of the latter in 1859 his eldest son, ascended the throne as Charles XV. He died in 1872 and the crown descended to his brother, Oscar II, the present monarch.

Fire Sweeps Row of Sheds.
Fire which destroyed a row of sheds in the rear of 387 Page boulevard at 1:35 o'clock Thursday morning made a great bonfire. The back steps and woodwork of the building were also consumed. The flames played around a can of coal oil in the back part of the grocery of Raymond L. Lovell, occupying the second and third floors of the building. They were alarmed by the flames, but were in no danger.

HIS WEALTH A BARRIER OVERCOME, BUSINESS MAN WEDS PRETTY WAITRESS

MR. AND MRS. JAMES R. BRODERICK

James R. Broderick, World's Fair Contractor and Girl Who Served Him at Downtown Restaurant, Spend Honeymoon in "Paradise," His Baltimore Summer Home.

Truth is stranger than even Ivan Whita's fiction.

Martha Matilda Bernmark, who was born and has lived all her life in a cottage on Caroline street, who was never before away from St. Louis left Tuesday night as the bride of James K. Broderick, to spend her honeymoon traveling and at "Paradise," a magnificent country place near Baltimore, which her husband has rented for the summer with its retinue of servants.

There was no need for Martha Bernmark, when she was 16 years old to become a waitress, but in all her life she had scarcely been out of sight of the brick cottage at 2749 Caroline street, and although the house was kept as neat as a pin, and no weeds were permitted to grow in the yard and garden, filled with flowers, there was not enough to keep her energetic mother, her sister and herself busy all the time, and the strength of perfect health, which was hers, demanded exercise.

So her mother reluctantly gave her consent for Martha to go to work at a restaurant on Eighth street. She was assigned to a table and for six years she was there every week day from 11 to 3, waiting on the business men who take their midday meal there.

Favorite of Business Men.

Her blooming beauty and unfeeling good nature quickly established her in the favor of the customers of the restaurant, and it was not unusual for business men to wait for vacancies at her table rather than be served by another.

One day, three years ago, a grave man of business came to her table. He was James R. Broderick, Secretary of the Broderick & Wind Engineering and Construction Co. of New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

Engrossed in million-dollar contracts he had shunned society and had not permitted himself to be known to the restaurant. His abstraction was not so great, however, but that he noticed that the girl who waited on him was uncommonly attractive and bore herself with unusual modesty and grace.

He was in St. Louis looking after a large contract and it was necessary for him to remain some time. He went every day to the restaurant and every day sat at the same table.

The girl who waited on him attracted him as he had never been attracted before to girl or woman. He found pleasure in talking to her and before he found it necessary to leave St. Louis they had become well acquainted.

He did not forget the pretty waitress in St. Louis. He was glad when business brought him back to St. Louis. The first day he went along with a thrill of pleasure saw Miss Bernmark was still at the same table.

It was not long before James R. Broderick frankly admitted to himself that he was deeply in love with the pretty waitress. He determined he would try to win her for his wife.

Wealth Barrier in Wooping.

The project was beset with greater difficulties than any engineering problem he had ever grappled. He perceived that his wealth was a handicap. The girl, sensibly raised by a sensible mother, regarded him as one who was beyond a fixed social gulf, which she had no inclination nor ambition to have bridged. She liked him. He was as kind to her as she could not help it. But he saw that he would have to woo her with very great tact before she would consent to think of him as a possible husband.

Refused Proffered Love.

It was a long time before he could break down her rule against receiving any kind of attention from her employers' customers. When at last she did permit him to take her places her sister was always inclined to visitation or he brought his brother along.

The World's Fair gave him the opportunity of proving his worth. He secured large contracts which kept him here. They were much at the Fair together and at last he told her of his love for her and asked her to be his wife.

She refused him. She told him very frankly that she liked him very much, but—She did not need to say why she would not promise to be his wife. He saw that the barrier of wealth had not been overcome.

He went back to Baltimore at the close of the Fair but kept up a correspondence with her. Two months ago he came again and again pressed his suit. She told him to go back to Baltimore and think it over. He continued to write so urgently that at last she wrote her promise to marry him. Three weeks ago he came here and the arrangements for the wedding were made. Sunday morning a week ago he came again.

He was displeased when he learned that she had continued her work at the restaurant, but she insisted on going down again the next day.

Last Tuesday at noon they were married at the Washington Hotel by Rev. Ralph Wakefield. From 4 to 6 there was a reception at the hotel to which the friends of both had been bidden. That night they left for Detroit. They will visit the Thousand Islands, New York and Old Point Comfort. Then they will spend the rest of the summer at "Paradise," near Buffalo, and after Oct. 15 they will be at the Preston in Baltimore.

"He has promised to bring her home Christmas," said Mrs. Bernmark Thursday, as she pulled the weeds from her flower beds. "But I don't know whether she will want to stay away that long. It is the first time she has ever been away from home."

draw from the defense. The permission was granted.

Sprague was asked if he had any agreement with his wife by which she and her witnesses were not to appear. He said he had not.

Sprague told of finding letters in his wife's desk. He declared that he had destroyed them. He said that he had destroyed them. He said that he had destroyed them.

Mrs. Charles H. O. Doer, an aunt of Mrs. Sprague, told of seeing her and Morton together. One time, she said, they came home at 2 a. m. She met them downtown frequently, and they invited her to go to restaurants with her. She remonstrated with Mrs. Sprague, and said she received the reply that she was "pleased." Mrs. Doer's husband substantiated his wife's testimony in many instances.

The case was then taken under advisement.

Edith Newman Released.
On the condition that she would be taken out of the city by relatives if released, no warrant was issued Wednesday against Miss Edith Newman, who was arrested Tuesday on a charge of stealing various articles from the jewelry store of Hess & Culbertson, where she was employed.

June Trade Sale of Shirtwaist Suits

1200 Stylish $2 and $2.50 Shirtwaist Suits at Only $1.25

The Greatest Values
Yet
Offered.

A PROMINENT New York maker came to our Eastern representative with an offer to immediately close his entire stock of just 1200 stylish summer Shirtwaist Suits at one price—a very low one, indeed—and he quickly accepted his proposition. These pretty warm weather suits come in light or dark grounds, either plain or with neat dots and figures.

The waists are in the full plaited styles, with full sleeves, some with lace insertion. The skirts are side-plaited, cut very full and perfectly finished. These are unquestionably ideal suits for present wear, as they will launder perfectly. In the regular way we would be compelled to ask $2 and $2.50 for these dainty suits. Choice tomorrow—$1.25

Flannel Tennis Skirts, $2.95
These typical summer styles are ideal for golf, tennis and picnicking purposes, and we will not be able to offer them for less than $5 when this lot is gone. They're fitted flounce models in white grounds with black, blue and brown pin stripes. The trimming is of fancy flaps of the same material. These skirts are easily washed or cleaned and are always dressy. Very special price $2.95

Button Back Lawn Waists, 75c
Charming square yoke styles in fine lawns, neatly tucked and edged with rows of fagoting and Val. lace. Full front, plaited back and large full sleeves with deep plaited cuffs. Unusually good $1.25 waists, at 75c

A Surpassing Bargain List for Friday and Saturday Values to Give Impetus to the Clearing Sale

We propose to make Friday and Saturday the two banner days of the June Clearing Sale. To that end we have made startling mark-downs—reducing seasonable Spring and Summer merchandise to a point which means wonderful selling. The bargains on this page all ring true. They're all they seem to be, and the occasion is one for you to profit by.

June Clearing Sale

Counter-Soiled Neckwear

This neckwear is in all the attractive styles. A few of the pieces are somewhat mussed and soiled, consequently we reduce prices to a bare fraction of actual values.

Ladies' Stocks, Chemisettes and Collars, slightly mussed; however, very desirable; reduced from 25c and 50c each to 10c. Face Veils, 1½ yards long, in white and colors; have been $1.50 and $2.00 each; wonderful value at 69c. White Cluny Bands, in white, and ecru, 5 inches wide; were 40c to 60c yard; 10c now. Oriental and Venice Allovers, in white, cream and colors (the new shades); values $1.25 and $1.50 a yard; sale price 49c.

Main Floor—Sixth Street.

June Clearing Sale

Seasonable Footwear

Men's $3.50 Oxfords at $2.50 a pair. These are our regular $3.50 lines, and the only reason we reduce the price is because the line of sizes is broken. If your size is here you can secure an extraordinary bargain. These Oxfords are in Black Vici, Box Calf and Patent Colt, are hand sewed, and in either Blucher or lace styles. Regular $3.50 shoes for $2.50 a pair.

Men's Shoes—special bargain lines in both lace and Blucher styles; made of Box Calf, Black Vici and Patent Leather, strictly hand sewed; $3.50 values $1.95. Ladies' Patent Leather and Vici Kid Oxfords, some with patent tips; these have been culled from our $2.50 and $3.50 line and reduced for the June Clearing Sale to $1.25. A Sale of Skirts and Wrappers

Two large purchases of Summer Garments—White Wash Skirts and Lawn Wrappers—at about half regular price. These will constitute the basis for a large Friday's selling.

$1.00 for $1.50 White Duck Skirts

Our best skirt manufacturer had on hand an enormous overstock of white "Indian Head" Duck. We made him an offer for the entire quantity, made up into six of this season's best skirt styles (one of which we illustrate). These six styles are this season's most popular effects, side pleated, box pleated, plain and "step" kilted; also Spanish flounce and "flounce" kilted; some are trimmed with straps and buttons; others are plain tailor-made; all are perfectly draped and beautifully finished and have been made to our especial and exclusive order. Indian Head duck and scratch linen comprise the materials; the color is white only; there are all lengths, in all styles from 36 to 45 inches; they will be sold as bought, as follows:

$1.00 for $1.50 White Washable Skirts.
$1.50 for $2.25 White Washable Skirts.
$2.00 for $3.00 White Washable Skirts.
$3.00 for $4.50 White Washable Skirts.

50c for 75c Lawn Wrappers

We bought 200 dozen lawn and percale wrappers from an overstocked manufacturer in New York at nearly half his original prices. There are a great variety of styles, colors and patterns. All are made full and are perfect fitting. Some are plain effects, others have caps on shoulders, all are tastily trimmed with washable braids. Strictly high class wrappers in all sizes, to be sold at about one-half regular prices, as follows:

50c for 75c Washable Wrappers.
75c for $1.25 Washable Wrappers.
$1.00 for $1.50 Washable Wrappers.

GRAY HAIRS THE ONLY CAUSE

A National Meeting of Traveling Men Held in Chicago to See
What Can Be Done

THOUSANDS OF LADIES INTER-ESTED

De Lacy's French Hair Tonic Strongly Endorsed by Entire Meeting

ST. LOUIS SENDS LARGE DEL-EGATION

Great business concerns are so fast letting out the gray-haired men that mass meetings are being held by employers in all large cities to see if something can not be done. A great national meeting was held in Chicago last week, which was largely attended by traveling men, and by men in all classes of business. This meeting was very largely attended also by hundreds of ladies, who are interested in the future positions of their fathers, brothers and husbands.

Whether it is right or wrong, it is a most deplorable fact, that thousands of men who have held responsible positions for years, are today being let out, and their positions being given to younger,
and, in most instances, less capable men.
Employers are fast weeding out the gray haired fellows, claiming that younger blood will give their business the impetus of being more enterprising and up to date.
Many things were freely discussed at this great Chicago meeting, and it was decided that the only thing left for the gray-haired men to do was to find a way to get rid of their gray hair. A well known Chicago traveling man, made a speech in which he strongly advised the use of De Lacy's French Hair Tonic, offering his own hair as proof, which at one time was almost entirely gray, but today it did not contain a single white hair and when he stated that his age was 61, only his most intimate friends believed the statement, for in appearance he did not look to be a day over 45.

So many others who attended this meeting also told of their experience in using De Lacy's French Hair Tonic, that the entire meeting passed resolutions, advising the old gray haired fellows and the ones who were prematurely gray to use this great world renowned gray hair restorer.

De Lacy's French Hair Tonic will restore gray hairs in any color of hair, whiskers or mustache, back to the color they were before they turned gray. It is a perfectly harmless remedy and is in no sense a hair dye. It is easily applied, is not sticky or gummy, and will not injure, but greatly benefit the hair by leaving it soft, silky and in fine condition.
This famous hair remedy is the formula of Dr. De Lacy, who today has the finest hair parlor in Paris; and he uses it exclusively, not only for restoring gray hairs in any color of hair, back to the color it was before it turned gray, but the doctor also says it will stop the worst cases of hair falling with few applications, and is the only remedy ever produced that will effect an absolute cure of dandruff. It is also a perfect tonic and dressing for the hair. De Lacy's French Hair Tonic is a boon to womanhood, for it makes them appear 10 to 20 years younger than they really are. This great hair remedy is sold by most good druggists throughout the United States, but the public is warned against using injurious substitutes, and if your local druggist does not keep it, send one dollar to the De Lacy Chemical Co., 505 Franklin av., St. Louis, Mo., and it will be sent promptly to any part of the United States, all charges prepaid.

Crop of June Brides Is Unusually Large—Prominent Families Concerned.

HEWITT-ELWELL WEDDING

Miss Alma R. Bode Becomes the Wife of Frank T. Wilson of St. Louis.

Dan Cupid is making a record for himself in Alton this week, and the numerous June brides are selected from the most prominent families.

Last evening at 8 o'clock in the west parlor of the spacious Hewitt home at Liberty street, Miss Alice Hewitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt and Eugene Elwell of Upper Alton, answered the questions and to the vows which made them one for life. The Rev. W. M.
Backus of Chicago, a former pastor of the First Unitarian Church of this city, officiated, and, used, in part, the ring ceremony
of the Episcopal Church.

The maid of honor was Miss Hilda Hewitt,
a sister of the bride, and Donald Johnston acted as groomsmen. Miss Grace
Watson of Alton and Miss Phoebe Bayle of St. Louis were bridesmaids. Miss Carrie Cunningham of Alton and Miss Annie Fogge of Edwardsville, ribbon bearers, and Miss Eleanor Hewitt, a sister of the bride, flower girl. Many St. Louis people attended the marriage, and an engaged couple, the supper served immediately thereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwell departed at 10 o'clock for the North, where they will spend their honeymoon, after which they will be domiciled in Alton.

The bride is one of the popular society girls of Alton, and the groom is assistant manager in the St. Louis office of the Equitable Insurance Co.

Another June bride yesterday was Miss Alma R. Bode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
William A. Bode of East Eighth street, who became the bride of Frank T. Wilson, of St. Louis, a draftsman in the office of the American Car and Brake Co. The Rev. Theodore Oberkellman, pastor of the German Evangelical Church, officiated. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were in attendance. The bride-maid was Miss Hilda Hewitt, of St. Charles, Mo., and the groomsmen were J. T. Heise of St. Louis, Mrs. Charlotte Wilson of Evansville, Ind., mother of the groom, attended the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left on an evening train for St. Louis, where they will reside.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dixon in Upper Alton last evening, the Rev. M. C.
McPherson of Alton, the Rev. M. C. McPherson officiating. The couple will reside in Alton, where both are well and favorably known.
This evening at 7 o'clock Miss Alma R. Bode of Clement place, and William Porter, superintendent of the Alton, Chicago & St.
Louis Traction Co.'s system, will be married by Rev. Allen A. Tanner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. At the same hour a brother of Mr. Porter's, Harry Porter, will marry young Mrs. J. H. Ferguson, of the two couples will visit Seattle,
Wash., and the Portland Exposition.

CAUGHT UNDERSIZED TROUT

David Gregg in Contact With Massachusetts Law.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., June 8.—
David Gregg, a "gentleman farmer" in this town and stock broker of New York City, was fined $30 in the District Court for catching two trout under the legal length of six inches. Lawyer Whiting, for Mr. Gregg, pleaded in defense that the trout had not run an inch or two after being caught. Mr. Gregg has appealed to the Superior Court.

MASONIC INTERDICT STANDS

Iowa Grand Lodge Passes French
Grand Lodge Proposals.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
DAVENPORT, Ia., June 8.—Whether recognition should be accorded the Masons of France, who have cut out of their declaration of Masonic belief and ideals, was the subject of an interesting report from the French Grand Lodge, which is applying for recognition of American Grand Lodges, showing that the Grand Orient of France does not take the radical atheistic stand that is taken by the Grand Orient Masonic body of that country. In respondence on the matter was submitted with a recommendation that the French Grand Lodge's confession of faith be accepted as sufficient, but action on the matter was deferred until next year. Until then the Masons from France traveling in Iowa, will be under the interdiction that has prevailed for some years.

To Interest Churchgoers.
Rev. W. D. Pittmann, pastor of the Second Christian church, has inaugurated institutional work, which is intended to attract the congregation every night in the week, instead of two or three times. In the early fall he expects to establish a training school. A series of lectures will be a feature of certain nights. Tuesday night
W. H. McClain, general manager of the Provident Association, delivered an illustrated lecture on the Oberammergau passion play.

Where the Arrest Was Made.
The arrest of the great of William Artie, publisher of the Waterways Journal, for threatening Capt. Broiak and Pilot T. Heddington of the steamer Corwin H. Spencer, with a revolver, said that the arrest was made in the office of the Pilot's Society. The arrest, it should be said, was made at the office of the Waterways Journal.

DUPRE SATISFIED WITH DALRYMPLE

Friends Assert, However, Chicago Mayor Will Breathe Easier When Scot Is Gone.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, June 8.—While Mayor Dunne expresses himself as entirely satisfied with the results of James Dalrymple's expert researches into the problem of Chicago traction controversy, many of the Mayor's friends today privately admitted that the entire official family will be relieved when the Mayor's Glasgow friend is well on his way home. The fact is that the Scotch traction magnate will leave the city on Friday, several days earlier than he had planned, without making any written report on his investigation from the point of municipal ownership.

Both Mr. Dalrymple and the Mayor are profuse in their assurances to the public that diplomatic relations between the Glasgow tramway interests and the local advocates of public ownership remain intact. The Scotchman, it is announced, requested the Mayor's permission to leave Chicago earlier than he had planned, so that he may visit Buffalo, Philadelphia and Washington before sailing for home, June 20. Meanwhile Mayor Dunne's traction advisers are fearful lest Mr. Dalrymple may, by his Scotch directness, hurt some of the observations he is said to have made in private in regard to the local situation. So great is the anxiety of the Mayor and the administration on this score that for the last three days Mr. Dalrymple has been furnished with a bodyguard to accompany him clear of the "danger places" and to keep him out of the way of news paper interviewers.

TEST YOUR KIDNEYS

Thousands of Men and Women Die Every Year of Kidney Disease Because They Don't Know In Time They Have Got It.

The only way to keep watch of your health is to test your kidneys at least once a month. Just let a tablespoonful of morning urine stand 24 hours, and if it becomes cloudy, or particles float about in it, or if a reddish-brown sediment forms, it is positive proof that your kidneys have been diseased for months and are utterly unable to do their work, and unless properly treated at once, Bright's disease, diabetes, uric acid and blood poisoning, with fatal results, will surely follow.

The only safe and positive cure for all diseases of the kidneys, bladder, liver and blood is

GRADUATE MANY AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Large Classes From Different Departments Receive Diplomas at Columbia.

ADDRESSED BY GOV. FOLK

Honorary Degrees Conferred on E. W. Stephens and Norman J. Colman of St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. COLUMBIA, Mo., June 7.—A large graduating class received diplomas this morning at Missouri University.

In the absence of Dr. R. H. Jesse, who is now in Europe, the diplomas were awarded by Dr. J. C. Jones, acting president. The auditorium was packed to its capacity, there being many visitors present from all parts of the State. At 10 o'clock this morning the annual University address was delivered by Dr. Charles Hughes of Denver, after which the graduates of the law department received their diplomas. The University main building and marched into the auditorium.

A larger number of honors were awarded than in any previous year. Harry S. Weyman, a Kansas City boy, carried off the honors in the junior class in the School of Agriculture.

Miss Maude Williams of Westport won the junior scholarship in the academic department.

The junior scholarship in the law department goes to W. F. Franken of Norborne.

In the medical department the scholarship was won by John M. Riggs of Winchester, Ill.

The honor of valedictorian in the School of Agriculture is awarded to Wilbur A. Cochel of Columbia.

Robert R. Kern of Kansas City is valedictorian in the academic department. Mr. Kern won the Rollins scholarship last year.

Earnest A. Green of De Soto, a son of Judge James E. Green, is valedictorian in the Law Department. Charles Mortimer of Doniphan, won the honor of valedictorian in the Department of Engineering.

W. M. Alexander Jr., a son of Dean M. Alexander, of the Medical Department, is valedictorian in medicine.

The annual prize of $50 provided by J. V. C. Karnes of Kansas City and awarded each year by the law faculty to a student of the senior or junior classes offering the best thesis upon some subject within the domain of legal ethics, was won by E. S. Jones of Beverly.

"The American and English Encyclopedia of Law," valued at $50, awarded annually to the student of the senior class offering the best thesis upon some subject within the domain of legal ethics, was won by E. S. Jones of Beverly.

The subject of his essay was "In How Far May Acts of the Legislature be Made Contingent Upon Being Accepted by Popular Vote Without Violating the Principle That Legislative Power Cannot be Delegated?"

The judges in the contest were the following prominent lawyers: James E. Green, V. C. Karnes, W. F. Franken, J. C. Jones, L. L. B. Cum Laude, who presents the best thesis upon a subject assigned by the law faculty, was awarded the degree of LL. B. by the University.

In the contest of the senior class, the prize by William S. Woods of Kansas City for the best essay on some subject pertaining to the history, people or products of Missouri have not yet been awarded.

For the second time in the history of the university a Stephens medal in oratory was not awarded for lack of contestants.

The last 25 years have marked a gradual decline in the interest which the students of the university have taken in oratory.

The rat contest was held in 1880. There were five contestants, a large audience and great deal of interest. The university conferred the honorary degree of LL. D. upon E. W. Stephens of Columbia, President of the Baptist Association of America and the Southern Baptist Association, and Norman J. Colman, editor of Colman's Pulpit.

Gov. Folk arrived this morning to attend the commencement exercises of the university and addressed the students this afternoon. He will return to the State capital tomorrow morning.

SLASHES THROAT WITH RAZOR

Between midnight and 4:30 o'clock Thursday morning Joseph Ratcliffe slashed his throat with a razor in his room on the third floor of the house of Max Frenzel at 107 Victor street. He was unconscious when found and was sent to the City Hospital. His recovery is improbable.

Ratcliffe, who is a carpenter, 41 years old and single, is said to have been drinking heavily for a week. He was in good humor Wednesday night, however, and no suspicion was aroused when he borrowed a razor from John Frenzel, the proprietor of his room. He has brothers, John and Benjamin, in Louisville, Ky.

PANISH KING IN A BURNING MOTOR CAR

Alfonso Has Exciting and Democratic Time in Capital of Great Britain.

LONDON, June 8.—Alfonso XIII is apparently having the time of his life here and enjoys the entertainment provided and a lot that he provides for himself in very democratic fashion.

He is fond of automobiles and likes the excitement of a sprint.

Today while touring through the shopping district the auto in which he was riding caught fire and he was compelled to get out and walk to another machine to be taken back to Buckingham Palace.

He was entertained at luncheon by the Mayor and city officials and made himself as democratic as any of them more so than most of them, and made the most of his opportunity to be free.

He has been entertained by Lord Lansdowne at a dinner at which he met members of the Cabinet and ambassadors of foreign countries. There was nothing of the stiff state dinner about the affair and the young King was delighted.

It is freely stated that Alfonso never had so much liberty of action accorded him even at home, where he is ruler, as he has enjoyed here.

NO KIMBERLEY WILL FIGHT Mrs. Asay to Receive $500,000 Left Her by Millionaire.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth V. Asay, in whose apartments Peter L. Kimberley, the millionaire steel mill man, lived for five years before his death, last Sunday, will receive the $500,000 bequeathed her by the millionaire without a contest. The will, which was probated in Sharon, Pa., disposes of an estate of $500,000. The heirs are Amos C. Kimberley of West Liberty, Pa., and his son, Samuel C. Kimberley.

MUSIC DOES NOT SOOTHE PARK CROWD

Commissioner Aull Complains to Mayor of "Rowdy Bunch" at Carr Park.

Although music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, according to the post, it is exerting exactly the opposite effect in that of Carr Park Commissioner Aull, who is greatly wrought up by alleged uproarious proceedings in Carr Park on the occasion of a night concert given there last week, and on Thursday he addressed a letter to the Mayor on the subject.

The Park Commissioner calls for an extra detail of police for night concerts in Carr park, claiming that music does not soothe the crowds that congregate at these concerts. At last week's concert in Carr Park, he informs the Mayor, a most disorderly crowd assembled and the one park keeper and one policeman were utterly unable to cope with it. Lawns were trampled almost into ruin, plants and flowers destroyed and the park next morning was strewn with empty beer bottles left there by blubious patrons of nearby saloons who had gazed here in the park while listening to the music.

The crowd numbered fully 300 persons, the Park Commissioner says, and his request that the Mayor cause more notice to be detailed for park service on concert nights is based on a desire to save the parks from being injured by drunken vandals.

At the same time that he addressed this communication to the Mayor, Park Commissioner Aull received a letter from James M. Brown, president of the Fountain Place Improvement Association, asking him to discontinue band concerts in Fountain Park. Mr. Brown declares that these concerts attract an undesirable crowd to the park and that the residents of the neighborhood would be pleased if the concerts were "cut out."

The Park Commissioner will take no action until he has heard from the Fountain Place Improvement Association. He represents the majority sentiment of Fountain place residents.

BLAZE SEEN IN THREE CITIES

Fire Sweeps Western Fire Brick Co.'s Factory at Granite City, and Box Cars.

An investigation Thursday did not disclose clearly the cause of the fire which destroyed the factory of the Western Fire Brick Co. at Granite City Wednesday night, but it is supposed to have started from a banked fire in the oven.

The fire started at 10 o'clock. The blaze was visible from all parts of the tri-city and caused a good deal of excitement and a great crowd gathered.

The buildings had been completed two years and bricks had been pressed, but it was not until last Monday that finished bricks were turned out. The company will rebuild.

Old Manual's Last Exhibition.

The last public exhibition of the pioneer Manual Training School is in operation will be given in the old building Tuesday, June 13, from 2:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. After 25 years of successful work, the old plant is to be torn down.

Things and removals will begin immediately after the exhibition Tuesday.

Wife of Alleged Inebriate Asks Damages and Forfeiture of License of Dramshop.

Mrs. G. L. Zitzer of 2501 Carr street, filed suit in the Circuit Court Thursday against L. Lamb of 2200 Carr street, asking $400 damages, the forfeiture of defendant's dramshop license and the costs in the case on the charges that defendant sold liquor to her alleged dipsomaniac husband in despite of a written request from her not to do so, that he sold liquor to a minor to be delivered to her husband, and that he sold liquor to her husband on Sunday in violation of the Sunday closing law.

Plaintiff's petition was filed by her attorney P. P. Mason, and sets forth that she is the wife of George L. Zitzer, and that they have lived in St. Louis for the past 20 years. Her husband is an habitual drunkard, she alleges, and she has repeatedly asked defendant, who conducts a grocery and saloon across the street from their home, not to sell liquor to him.

On May 8, she alleges, she wrote him a letter, giving him written notice not to sell whiskey to her husband, and when this letter was delivered to defendant through the mails he showed it to her husband who took possession of it and refused to return it. The petition states that the letter will be filed as an exhibit in the suit.

Almost daily since then, Mrs. Zitzer alleges, her husband has been intoxicated and "obnoxious to observers."

Man of Old Hero Turned Showman Aggravates Eastern Military Men.

It took St. Louis a good while to become accustomed to seeing Gen. Piet J. Cronje descend to the role of showman, so the East's attitude toward the old Boer warrior may be easily understood. The military men of the East are making it rather not for the defender of Paardeburg. They call his participation in the Boer War spectacle at Coney Island a disgrace to the profession of arms and his country.

Cronje heard much the same murmuring here at St. Louis, and he answered his critics much as he answered the cannon of the British at Paardeburg. He has repeated his defense of himself in New York, and there is some unconscious humor in what he says. For instance:

"How can I disgrace the profession of arms when I am not a soldier?" "Boer War veterans do not draw pensions."

"This is not play, but work. I have to work."

It is said in New York that Henry W. Savage has selected Raymond Hitchcock to be the star of "The Spectroscope," a comedy to be produced next season.

Ethel Barrymore is to have J. M. Barrie's newest play, "Alice-Lie-By-the-Fire." She will return from England in July to begin rehearsals in it.

A piano recital was given at Henneman's Hall last night by the pupils of Miss Louise Dietz. Dipomaniacs were warned in the first grade to Gertrude Lillybeck; in the second grade to Ida Angel, Anna Bleasing, May Gish, Etta Brodsky, Helen Haasengruber, Viola Lillybeck, Gladys McCoy and Elsie Schine; in the third grade to Millie Goltzman, Lulu Hambe, Melissa Kimball, Louise Lillybeck, Isabelle Stefel and Christian Haasengruber. In the fifth grade to Grace M. Fischer. An address was made by Rev. Charles E. Blaisdell.

A fine musical, in which leading local musicians will take part, will be given for the benefit of the Women's Training School Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Capital Hall of the Osborn. No charity is being asked for the school, which teaches many how to help themselves. The music program is one of the best ever offered on an occasion of this kind. It is as follows:

Benedictus—Mrs. J. J. Schenberger. Paul C. Batts, first tenor; J. J. Schenberger, second tenor; W. A. Goldberg, first bass; J. L. Hunting, second bass. Mendelssohn. Bird Song—Mrs. Clara Wustling. The Merry Widow—Mrs. Clara Wustling. Scherzo from Concerto—Mrs. Clara Wustling. Duo for two pianos—Miss Josephine Carls and Miss Clara Wustling. Vocal Quartet—From Rigoletto—Verdi. Soprano: Mrs. Fred Fodde, contralto: Paul C. Batts, tenor: W. A. Goldberg, baritone: Berenice Volin Solo—Mrs. Clara Wustling. The Pearl of the South—Mrs. Clara Wustling. Tarantella—From Verdeli and Naples—David Blaisdell Solo—Miss Josephine Carls. Sextet—From Lucia—Donizetti. Miss Breyer, Mrs. Fodde, Mrs. Batts, Schenberger, Goldberg and Hill.

The Police Relief Association is pulling large wads of money out of Hopkins' Pavilion this week, where their benefit is going on with one of the best shows of the season. Next week's vaudeville spread is headed by Staley and Birbeck, the musical blacksmiths. Mrs. Sukowaki, operatic prima donna, is new here. Schrock and Rice, Free Brothers and Sons, and with the Biograph, are the other attractions.

At the Imperial Theater the Esther Rujaero Co. is presenting this week a very good production of "The Butterflies," an adaptation of "Moths." In the leading role Miss Rujaero is seen at her best. Eloise French, Leon McElroy, Elysian Holmes, Katherine Taber, Leora Spellmyer, Robert Harland, John Gordon, and Mark Elliston are all well cast.

The four weeks season of the Rujaero company terminates Saturday, as will the season of the Imperial, which has run six weeks, the longest of any theater in St. Louis. It has been the most successful season in the history of the Imperial. Manager D. E. Russell announces that after the usual summer renovating the theater will reopen early in August with the same policy.

There will be a change of players at the Yiddish drama Friday night of this week, when the Lowenwirths, who have been playing at the Crawford Theater for the past three weeks, will give way to other members of the Pavilion Stock Company. The new company will give three performances in Yiddish at the Crawford. Mr. Gluckman is quite a well-known star in the Yiddish drama, and his support includes others of proved ability, notably Mrs. Clara Rafale, prima donna. The company will produce an opera tomorrow night. It is "Der Greener Tid." Saturday night they will produce "Jacob and Esau," by Hurwitz. The third performance will be given Sunday afternoon. The troupe will play "The Golden Medina." These players, like those that have been at the Crawford for several weeks, are under the management of Rosenblum and Novosholky.

Miss Esther Rujaero and company will be tendered a farewell reception at the Imperial Theater Friday afternoon immediately after the matinee performance of "The Butterflies or Moths." All who desire will be given the opportunity to meet Miss Rujaero and the members of her company, all of whom have made many friends in this city during the engagement which ends Saturday evening.

"Show Folks," a theatrical novelty, will be produced by the Willis Musical Comedy Company at Suburban Gardens next week. This week the company is drawing its best audiences with "Fanny Mr. Hoolingman," a musical absurdity. The Groh family acrobats are an additional drawing card.

"The Girl From Dixie," a musical piece which has always found fine favor in St. Louis, will be given at Suburban Gardens next week with Gus Weinburg in the leading comedy role. This pretty piece ran eight weeks at the Century Theater a year ago, and returned to the Grand in the autumn and did another fine week's business. It will afford Miss Kent, the prima donna at the garden, rather exceptional opportunities to exhibit the pleasing qualities of her voice.

The concert given at the Henneman Vocal College May 25 will be repeated June 16. The soloists will be Mrs. Clara Schuchert-Goebel, Misses Adelle and Louise Lahrman and Miss Mamie Lyons.

The finishing touches are being given to arrangements for opening the Tyrolean Alps Saturday of this week. Conductor Lund and his orchestra of 50 have been rehearsing together for more than ten days, and their concert of Saturday and Sunday will give at the outset an idea of the high quality of music which the Alps season is to afford. The orchestra will play every afternoon and evening through the summer, the matinee concerts to be from 3 to 5:30 and the night concerts from 7:30 to 11.

The Alps Cafe will also open Saturday under the management of Louis Caesar.

DEATH KEPT ACTOR'S TRYST WITH WIFE

Earl B. Townsend, Athlete and Singer, Shot to Death Soon After Making Arrangements to Meet Mrs. Townsend at Home.

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY IS DIBEGARDED

Witness of the Shooting Contradict Claim of Bartender That Victim Was Drunk—Shooter Held Without Bail.

Death kept the tryst that Earl B. Townsend made with his wife. Within a few minutes after he had parted from her with an agreement to meet her soon at their home, he was shot to death by "Jack" Renny, a bartender in Max Gumpert's saloon opposite the entrance to Delmar Garden.

Townsend and his wife were employed in the chorus at Delmar Garden and all day yesterday they were rehearsing for the production of "A Girl from Dixie." After the rehearsal they left the garden in company with three friends. At the entrance to the garden they separated.

"Goodbye, sweetheart," said Townsend, "I will be home soon for dinner."

Mrs. Townsend took a suburban car and her husband, accompanied by Joseph E. Little and a Mr. Gill, went across the street.

Beer in a Broken Glass.

The three men went to Gumpert's saloon. Mrs. Townsend, Little and Gill say Townsend had not been drinking; that he had been in the saloon, Renny set out for Townsend a broken glass. Townsend drank the beer and then declared he did not know how much glass he had swallowed with it. He and Renny went from discussion to quarrel over the broken glass, and Renny raised a shotgun from behind the bar, leveled it across the bar and fired, the charge tearing a hole in Townsend's chest near the heart.

Townsend ran out of the saloon and into the hotel, where he fell dead in Little's arms.

Renny was arrested by Sgt. Hickman of the Mounted District police and turned over to a St. Louis County Deputy Sheriff. Townsend's body was placed on a table in the hotel, and after physicians had removed half a dozen buckshot from the wound, was taken to a downtown undertaking establishment.

Tell Different Stories.

Gumpert was prominent at the inquest Wednesday night, asking numerous questions until Sheriff Herpel warned him against doing so. The coroner's jury was composed of E. C. Hencken, former sheriff; Harry Schnecko, his former deputy; William Dwyer, James Tong, Robert Smith and C. E. Fischer. After the verdict had been rendered, Coroner Koch and Prosecuting Attorney Johnson held a conference and decided to hold Renny. The coroner then swore to the information, alleging murder in the first degree.

Renny declares that Townsend was intoxicated; Little and Gill say he was entirely sober. Renny says Townsend struck him in the face with his fist; Little and Gill say no blows were exchanged and that they thought the men were chaffing.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, but Coroner Koch and Prosecuting Attorney Johnson decided to disregard the verdict and Renny was held without bail on information sworn to by the coroner. He is in the jail at Clayton and will have a preliminary hearing before Justice Campbell at De Hodiomont Friday.

The dead man's wife is prostrated by grief. She collapsed when told of her husband's death.

ATHLETE, WHO WAS SHOT TO DEATH, AND HIS WIFE.

EARL B. TOWNSEND

band's death an hour after she parted with him and has been under the care of a physician.

Townsend's body will be taken to Jefferson City Friday for interment.

Townsend was well known as an athlete, especially as a swimmer. He was 29 years old and a son of Joseph Sleeper Townsend of 2609 Evans avenue. Seven years ago he married Miss Margaret Knabner, a daughter of Edward Knabner, a millwright of Both's Grove, St. Louis County. Last year both were in the Delmar "Louisiana" chorus. Townsend being also an assistant stage manager. They lived with Townsend's brother-in-law, Howard H. Wagner.

Townsend was a swimming pupil and for a long time a teacher and life-saver in "Prof. Bill" Clark's Natatorium. During the flood of 1903 he went to the east side of the river as captain of a crew of 10 life-savers and worked for several days rescuing flood victims from their water-surrounded homes. It was impossible for the sufferers to leap from the roofs and wind down of their homes into the boats, and Townsend and his helpers rowed about, had them leap into the water and then swam to them, dragging them into the boats.

Townsend was arrested by Sgt. Hickman of the Mounted District police and turned over to a St. Louis County Deputy Sheriff. Townsend's body was placed on a table in the hotel, and after physicians had removed half a dozen buckshot from the wound, was taken to a downtown undertaking establishment.

After the verdict had been rendered, Coroner Koch and Prosecuting Attorney Johnson held a conference and decided to hold Renny. The coroner then swore to the information, alleging murder in the first degree.

Renny declares that Townsend was intoxicated; Little and Gill say he was entirely sober. Renny says Townsend struck him in the face with his fist; Little and Gill say no blows were exchanged and that they thought the men were chaffing.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, but Coroner Koch and Prosecuting Attorney Johnson decided to disregard the verdict and Renny was held without bail on information sworn to by the coroner. He is in the jail at Clayton and will have a preliminary hearing before Justice Campbell at De Hodiomont Friday.

CREVELING "DROWSY" WOMAN TELLS JURY

Witness Says She Never Saw Wife Smoke Cigarettes, but She Did Take Drink.

HIS CHECKS CAME BACK

One Witness Tells of Loving Scene in Wineroom in Which He Figured.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Anna D. Creveling, daughter of Police Captain Joyce, against William C. Creveling, was resumed Thursday before Judge Bishop.

Mrs. Sarah Parasatti, 2725 Lucas avenue, testified that she was a friend of the Joyce family and that she knew Mrs. Creveling, well. She said that she had never seen the plaintiff smoke a cigarette, but had seen her take a drink. She said she had seen Creveling in a condition that she described as "drowsy."

Charles Eggleston, who has a saloon at Twenty-eighth street and Franklin avenue, testified to cashing a check for Creveling which was not paid when presented to the bank. Similar evidence was given by Clarence Boulenger and Frank Vollmer.

William Maffitt, assistant treasurer of the Mercantile Trust Co., identified several checks bearing Creveling's signature which were presented at his bank for payment, which was refused. He said that Creveling had deposited $500 with the bank, but that checks continued to come in after the deposit was exhausted.

Julius L. Freund, pawnbroker, 615 Franklin, told of advancing $80 to Creveling on a marquis ring which he said belonged to his wife. The ring was afterwards redeemed and was pawned again for $75.

William Anthony, 2117 Lucas avenue, said he had seen Creveling in a wineroom on Franklin avenue with a woman and that the two were quite affectionate in their demeanor.

Locked Son-in-Law Up.

Capt. Peter Joyce, father of the plaintiff, told of the time when Creveling furnished a revolver and threatened his wife and when Policeman Sullivan brought him into the station and he locked his son-in-law up just as if he had been no relation.

The defense tried to show that the plaintiff was considerably older than her husband. Capt. Joyce was asked if she was not 28 years old. He said it was impossible for her to be more than 28.

After he had told of meeting his son-in-law on the stairs once and remonstrating with him for being intoxicated, he was asked if Creveling insulted him on that occasion.

"He was not able to insult anybody," said the captain. He denied that his daughter smoked cigarettes.

MRS. CREVELING WAS AN EXCELLENT WITNESS.

Mrs. Creveling was on the stand for five hours yesterday, one-half of the time under cross-examination. She was an excellent witness and at no time lost her temper, though her replies to many questions were spirited and were delivered with flashing eyes.

In her direct testimony she told of being choked and kicked by her husband at various times, told of threats to kill her by her husband and his brother, and gave details of pawing her jewels to raise funds to aid her husband when he was in financial difficulties.

Under cross-examination she told of her husband's courtship.

"Did you propose to him?" asked Attorney Plummer.

"He did not," declared the pretty witness. "He said, 'I want you to marry me and I will be quite devoted to you.'"

She told of letters that passed between her and Creveling before their marriage, and said that she knew he had inherited $15,000 a short time before they became engaged.

The questions that Mrs. Creveling was called on to answer were directed at proving the contention of Creveling that there was a conspiracy to obtain his money and that his wife was extravagant.

In answer to inquiries she said that she and her husband lived together, and said that he had told her he was a "railbird." She declared that she did not know what a "railbird" is, and the attorney professed a similar ignorance.

"You gave a house-warming after you moved into your new residence," asked the attorney.

Never Smoked Cigarettes.

"Yes. About a dozen friends were present."

"How much liquor did you have that evening?"

"Two cases of beer and a quart of whisky."

"That was a reasonable quantity, I am sure," suggested Judge Bishop after the attorney had tried to get Mrs. Creveling to admit that she and some of her guests were drunk.

"I never smoked cigarettes and never sent my husband after them," declared Mrs. Creveling. "He tried to teach me to smoke and would light cigarettes and place them between my lips. But he smoked so much that I was disgusted with cigarettes and never smoked one."

"Do you think you have a good temper?"

"Yes, I sometimes get angry, but only when I was abused."

"Did you not attack your husband one day and tear his collar off?"

"No. I never laid hands on the boy."

PRIEST GOING TO RUSSIA.

Because he wants to learn the truth concerning the Russo-Japanese War, Rev. Father D. S. Phelan, editor of the Western Watchman, who will leave St. Louis for a European trip next Sunday, will endeavor to spend much of his time in Russia.

He is a Russian sympathizer and believes that the Japanese will be finally defeated. He holds Socialism responsible for disaffection in the Russian army and navy, and he proposes to study Socialism, especially in Germany.

During his stay abroad Father Phelan will closely inquire into the relations between the new Pope and the King of Italy.

Archbishop Glennon, in his sermon in the new Cathedral Chapel last Sunday, made humorous reference to Father Phelan's characterization of his European tour as his "ad limina."

Father Phelan says that while other priests and prelates go to Rome representing only their own sections of the country, he will represent the Union at large, and report to the Holy Father "all that has happened in the entire country."

Furious Women Bettors On Ponies Crush Strike of Pool Boys at Union

Several hundred furious feminine financiers—frenzied they were, too—broke up a strike at the Union racetrack yesterday. The pool boys had made a united stand against certain demands of the management and betting was tied up for a time, as far as the women in the grandstand were concerned.

The women felt they were getting that which the public always gets in the case of strikes—the worst of it, but they resolved not to take it as patiently as the public usually does.

"We'll go to the Fair Grounds," said the women, and some of them started.

Then there were hasty conferences, suggested compromises, and finally a truce between the warring parties. It was arranged so that the women need not forego their constitutional right to wager and lose their husbands' money, and all was peace and pleasant excitement again.

The strike came about through the discovery by the bookmakers in the betting bets between the grandstand and the betting ring—were reaping profits by making books on their own responsibility.

The messengers were picking out such bets as seemed good to them, and taking the chances for themselves. Instead of turning them over to the regular bookmakers.

Bookmaker Oliver Protests.

Bookmaker Shelby Oliver voiced the protest of the Employers' Association, that the regular bookmakers, and the management of the track said the boys should be compelled to stop their profitable practice.

"Where do we get our $5 a day back?" the boys demanded. "It may be charity to relieve these poor salesladies and washladies of their money for the benefit of the big bookies, but we're not working for charity. We quit!"

And they quit.

Three races were run and no bets were placed by the grandstand element. The fair admirers of the great sport and its gambling feature began to grow hysterical.

"What do they think we came here for?"

KANSAS CITY NEEDS SHAVES ON SUNDAY

Frank Walsh, Folk Leader There, Says Barber Shops Are Open Because Necessary.

LID IS ON LIQUOR ONLY

Philadelphia Gas Fight Has Strengthened Folk-for-President Sentiment, He Says.

Attorney Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, manager of the Folk political organization in Western Missouri, remarked to a party of friends at the Southern Hotel Thursday that the Sunday closing law was being rigidly observed in Kansas City, but it had not been and would not be applied to barber shops.

"Our police board," said Mr. Walsh, "considers barber shops a necessity on Sunday. Therefore the commissioners have decided that they may remain open."

"Do you think the enforcement of the Sunday law should vary in Kansas City and St. Louis?" Mr. Walsh was asked.

"I shouldn't think so," he replied.

"Perhaps," continued Mr. Walsh, smiling, "the people of St. Louis don't need to shave on Sunday. But I don't know what we would do without the barber shops. The barber union has taken up the subject recently and may petition to have the shops closed on Sunday, but, of course, this won't be done unless our police department brings them under the ban of the law."

"Are dealers allowed to sell soda water?"

"Oh, yes. We merely put liquor under the lid. Our commissioners are very broad-minded, and they are thoroughly in sympathy with Gov. Folk's policies."

On Folk for President.

Walsh denied the report from Kansas City to the effect that he and Joe Shannon, the Democratic boss of Kansas City, intended to formally launch Gov. Folk's Presidential boom early in the fall.

He said he thought it was too early to consider Presidential candidates at this time, and besides he was not aware that the present chief executive aspired to succeed President Roosevelt.

He could not fail to note, however, he said, the rapidly-growing sentiment in favor of the anti-bond Governor, a sentiment which he believed has received considerable stimulus from the recent Philadelphia gas fight.

Walsh will return to Kansas City Thursday night.

It came here to look after some law business," he said. "And visit has absolutely nothing to do with politics."

"While on the ground I was drop over and see my old friend, Col. Phelps, and as he told me that he really was compelled to pay a fine for refusing to answer a grand jury subpoena."

COL. BRYAN SNORED.

Former Candidate Slept Audibly on Union Station Bench.

While waiting for Colonel Moses C. Wetmore at the Union Station Wednesday night Colonel William J. Bryan of Nebraska sat on a bench, leaned his back against a post and closed his eyes.

A muffled but sonorous noise, as of distant thunder, filled the air. Union Station employees and travelers hurrying to and from their trains heard the deep snoring and looked in the direction of Colonel Bryan. Then Colonel Wetmore arrived and shook Mr. Bryan gently and escorted him to a Cotton Belt train, bound for Pine Bluff.

Any time they say that Colonel Bryan snored.

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for the City of St. Louis, Mo., W. C. Steigler, Business Manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who deposes and says that the regular editions of the St.
Louis Post-Dispatch for the entire year 1904, after deducting all copies returned by newboys and copies left over, spoiled in printing and unaccounted for, averaged Daily 148,833, Sunday 225,837; and further that the sales of the Post-Dispatch in the City of

The Czar's liberal promises appear to be purely Pickwickian.

Secretary Hay is still far from well but T. R. continues to gain flesh.

The Czar's order to annihilate Togo must have been washed overboard.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS AT WASHINGTON.

The hint thrown out by Minister Takahira that Japan's peace terms will not be onerous is not surprising. The Japanese have shown themselves models of temperance, and have the virtue of moderation to an unusual degree. It may be confidently expected that the negotiations set going at Washington will be taken up by the two belligerents and carried through to a conclusion satisfactory to them, and it is not probable that the powers of Europe will try to alter any of the terms. They will think twice before repeating the blunder of 1895, out of which the present war has grown.

It is matter for pride that the President of the United States is acting as intermediary to bring the warring nations together. The mission of America is peace and if we can help the adoption of pacific policies anywhere in the world it is but giving play to the natural American spirit. If Mr. Roosevelt contributes to peace he will have earned praise for sound statesmanship and established prestige for this country of the right sort.

LOST-ONE PHILOSOPHER.

Prof. George Herbert Locke has given up the higher education for a higher salary. He has deserted the philosopher's study and gone to looking for the philosopher's stone. He has relinquished learning for lucre, wisdom for wealth.

He has discarded truth in the abstract for money in the concrete. He has given up the theoretical for the practical. After teaching philosophy for twenty years he has resigned his position as Dean of the College of Education of the University of Chicago and has taken a job—just an ordinary job—as head of the financial department of a Boston publishing house.

Then he was a philosopher; now he is a financier. Practical sense, he has found, is the way to riches, the only measure of success in this material age. Hard work is the philosopher's stone which turns all things into gold. Profligate brows do not always mean profligate purses.

What theorist will now scatter pearls of wisdom before the students while Professor Locke is cashing his check on pay-day?

What would Pericles say if he knew that 100 Greeks had been discharged in Bellevue?

TOGO'S TWO MESSAGES.

In his message to the Emperor, Admiral Togo ascribed the great victory of the Sea of Japan to the merit of the monarch and his glorious ancestors. He told the Mikado that the success of the Japanese fleet was due to the "brilliant virtue of your Majesty and the protection of the spirits of your Imperial ancestors," and not to the action of any human being.

But in his cabled reply to the message from the Post-Dispatch congratulating him on the victory, Admiral Togo says: "As to cause of victory, we have not yet had time to study, although, no doubt, experiences of Port Arthur gave much courage to our officers and men and taught them how to fight with coolness."

These two messages represent two different phases of Togo's character. In the one he is seen as a transcendentalist, an idealist, a man who believes in the unseen and who is accustomed to refer human action to it as the true causal region.

In the other he is as practical and common sense as the average Western man, eager to study in the field of action itself the immediate causes and their probable results and uses.

The two phases of character are not necessarily antagonistic. They are frequently found united harmoniously. Cromwell's Roundheads were of this type. They revelled in the abstract, but left no stone unturned to make the material conditions conform to their will.

Togo's motto for success: "Get quick and simple action."

Letters on all matters of public interest not exceeding 100 words, will be printed in this department. To insure shortness, suggestions, complaints, etc., can be written in much less than the 100 word limit. "Bolt it down."

The Texas Society.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I would ask if any of your readers, whether members or not of the Texas Society in St. Louis, organized at the Southern Hotel more than a year ago, know whether or not that society has ceased to exist and as to what its purpose was also as to the use to which its funds were put? Several who are interested have asked the question and no one seems to know anything about it.
JUNE.

Vehicles Should Carry Lights.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
All carriages and other vehicles that frequent the parks after nightfall should be equipped with lights. The ordinance requiring this should be strictly enforced. Doubtless such a law exists at the present time, but is seldom heeded except by "turnouts" that court style and smartness. Chauffeurs of motor cars, or others driving cars not carrying powerful and expensive searchlights, are kept in a state of nervous apprehension for fear of colliding with lampless buggies, that are not readily discerned in the deep shadows. Particularly is the danger enhanced turning a curve in the roadway, when the rays from the auto's lamps do not locate the other vehicle till the last moment.

Let there be light.
CHAUFFEUR.

Motorman Did His Duty.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I wonder if a motorman ever got any credit for doing his duty? Yes, for one, and that was in the Broadway accident last Friday evening. As the big-hearted motorman Jarrel Rule, was going south he saved the life of a sweet 3-year-old child, and not only that but won the esteem of his road officers and brother motormen for doing his duty. It was a very close call, and I wonder if Mr. Rule got any thanks from the parents of that child whose life he saved. As a rule motormen get nothing but a good cuffing. The people don't realize what a motorman has to put up with, and am well acquainted with Mr. Rule, and a man never lived that thinks more of little children. He is a kind-hearted man and is liked by all of his fellow workmen on the road.

A FRIEND OF THE MOTORMAN.

History Repeats Itself.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The present festivities connected with the wedding of the Crown Prince of Germany remind me of our citizens of long ago. John Tower, the singing master, who has been studying in Berlin for 1837, along with Prof. J. V. Paine of Harvard, took an active part in the display made by the English colony on the occasion. Amongst other things he blossomed into what, he says, he thought at the time was possibly Frederick Wilhelm, to whom it was addressed, sent him a personal letter of thanks. He has it now, and anyone curious about such things could see it at any time.
J. T.

Potter's Pot Patches.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It is deplorable to think of Bishop Potter trying to put the nation on a level with the church; but he is not degrading God's church; and he is looking for public notice. God help him.
WELLES.

shows that his is no superstitious faith, such as that of the Russian who carries his ikon into battle as a charm against the enemy's bullets. In the moment of peril, Togo is entirely self-reliant. After the fight is won, he is prepared to ascribe merit and look for causes. No conflict between the abstract and the concrete is permitted to impair his usefulness.

If it is true that the United States Government can make no use of the structural ironwork and other material of the Government building now standing on the World's Fair grounds, and is willing to sell this material to St. Louis, here is a good opportunity for the business men's organizations to acquire building material for a coliseum. The structure could no doubt be obtained at a reasonable figure, and much of it would be found to be well adapted to the purpose suggested. The city needs a coliseum, and no promising opportunity should be overlooked.

LET US HAVE CAUTION, BUT SPEED.

It is unfortunate that the first step in what appears to be a very proper movement to bring order and action out of a condition of disorder and inaction at the World's Fair grounds should have been of a character to provoke controversy. If it be true, as officials claim, that any proposition affecting the work of restoration of Forest Park should reach the Assembly only after consideration by the Board of Public Improvements, then it was a mistake to ignore that important body and to present the restoration bill directly to the two houses of the Assembly.

The conservation of a precious public property that is distinctively the concern of the masses—the common people—is the question before us. We assume that the World's Fair Association is entirely sincere in its expression of a desire to see this work done promptly and properly, and paid for equitably under the contract which preceded the Fair. We are convinced, as the World's Fair directors are, that this end will be more speedily and perfectly achieved under the management and the responsibility of the officers of a great municipality, which has a never-dying interest in the results, than under the direction of contractors whose responsibility may be limited to the letter of their contracts and whose interest ends with their cash settlements.

If these propositions be true, there is little value in doubts, or suspicions or obstructionist tactics or indirection. The proposition itself should find consideration and affirmation through an ordinance drawn without equivocations, presented in usual form, advanced through the usual channels, considered without prejudice or acrimony, and made effective by liberal safeguards. For instance, the ordinance should not deprive the city of any rights secured to it by the ordinance which made the World's Fair possible.

When this much is done there will remain the question as to the cost of the restoration work, which should be settled by agreement between the two parties in interest. The World's Fair Company has money in its treasury with which to meet this obligation. Any possible surplus would properly go back to the stockholders, who comprise St. Louisians in every walk of life.

If, therefore, there be sincerity on both sides, and jealousy on neither, it is hard to understand why there should be either friction or procrastination in settling this important question.

Nicholas II seems to have taken Louis XVI as his model statesman.

NORWAY AND SWEDEN.

The separation of Norway and Sweden does not necessarily involve war or even troublesome diplomatic questions.

The ostensible ground of Norway's dissatisfaction is that she is denied consuls of her own in foreign ports and that as a consequence her commerce has suffered. But the truth is the partnership has never been agreeable. The two nations have been unequally yoked together and Norway would have broken away long ago had she not been restrained by the fear of Russia. Now that the Czar is out of it, at least for the time, the Norwegians seize the opportunity.

Norway sets up independent housekeeping with little or no political furniture. She has no army, no navy, no diplomatic service. Sweden, the senior member of the dual monarchy, takes most of the organization of government and Norway will have to build for herself. It will, therefore, be no easy matter to get started, and it is obvious that success depends upon a season of undisturbed peace long enough to enable the new nation to collect and organize her forces.

The glad commencement time.
When students great
In every State
To dizzy summits climb;
When on distinguished citizens
Whose names in public glow
With greatest ease
A few degrees
Grim faculties bestow.

Oho for a degree!
You are N. G.
If you can't be
At least an LL. D.

They notify you in advance
Of what they mean to do:

Concerning a "Fatal Fact."

The eminent Col. John A. Joyce—did we say "eminent"? Well, let it go at that—the eminent Col. John A. Joyce, in his "Fatal Facts in Prose and Poetry," may well claim to have made and formulated a discovery of vital interest to the whole human race. The Colonel says:

Live how we may, by pay or trust,
Sooner or later die we must.
The poor, the rich, the weak, the brave
Alike descend into the grave,
And everything of mortal birth
Returns at last to Mother Earth.

Observation leads us to believe that the Colonel has indeed discovered a "fatal fact." It is one of those facts which is just as fatal in prose as it is in verse. We firmly believe that the Colonel has at last seized upon the heart of the universe and laid its greatest secret bare. We had not thought about it before, and do not believe it has ever been stated before, but now that our attention has been called to the fact, it strikes us as a truth that death is universal, and that "sooner or later die we must." Sooner than some of us like, and later than some of our enemies might wish.

But is there no escape from dissolution? Having harrowed up our hearts with distressing news that we are bound to brook some time a "fatal fact" we had never taken into consideration—can the Colonel offer us no hope of immunity from the grave? What right has he to come along whilst we are enjoying ourselves, pointing out the handwriting on the wall, unless he is prepared to show us a side door, or a skylight, or some other aperture through which we can make our get-away before the Grim Reaper gets around to us? Away with the Colonel's "fatal facts!" He is an old meddler.

Kiss Her.

Say, young man! if you're a wife,
Every morning of your life,
Kiss her.
Every evening when the sun
Marks your day of labor done,
Get you homeward from the run—
Kiss her!

Even though you're feeling bad,
Kiss her.
If she's out of sorts and sad,
Kiss her.

Act as if you meant it too;
Let the whole true heart of you
Speak its ardor when you do
Kiss her.

If you think it's "soft," you're wrong.
Love like this will make you strong.
Kiss her!

You're her husband now, but let
Her possess her lover yet.
Every blessed chance you get,
Kiss her.

Every good wife lets her man
Kiss her.
Be a man then, when you can;
Kiss her.
If you'd strike with telling force
At the Evil of Divorce,
Just adopt this simple course:
Kiss her.

NEW YORK NEWSPAPER VIEWS

This Morning's Comments on To-day's News by the Leading Metropolitan Journals.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The World says: "By his refusal to grant Norway a separate consular system King Oscar has driven the Storting to declare the union between Norway and Sweden dissolved."

"To Russia of all the European powers the Scandinavian peninsula has stood as a barrier and constant temptation to her. Once intrenched there she would have passed Germany and taken rank with England as a maritime state."

"Russian absorption of Norway and Sweden may seem remote. But Russian statesmanship looks far ahead. It is out of the weakness of her neighbors that Russia has gained in territory. To see Norway and Sweden wilfully reduce their strength by separation because of local issues must excite her hope of ultimate aggrandizement."

Chicago is shocked to learn that James Dairymple, superintendent of the Glasgow municipal tramways, is not an enthusiastic over public operation of street car systems in this country, says the Sun. "He sees in politics a menace to successful and economical management, and he seems to doubt the possibility of divorcing the car lines from politics, at least in the lakeside city. The problem of managing a car line as an annex to the Cook County Democratic one that even a canny Scotchman must consider seriously before he can present its solution."

"The Monroe Doctrine and the United States gunboats have for half a century been invoked at intervals in the muddled affairs of the Mosquito coast, and after all our annoyance and expense it is far from gratifying to learn that in return for her latest 'relinquishment' England gets from Nicaragua a commercial treaty which gives her trade advantages over the United States."

"... But the political secession of Norway from the Swedish union seems nevertheless to be a grave political mistake," says the Times.

The separation has been managed with dignity and even with amiability, but it remains true that Sweden and Norway will be distinctly weaker apart than they have been together and that they are encompassed and beset by powerful enemies. The temptation to Russia to restore her prestige by attempting upon Norway or upon Sweden the "Russification" which she has practiced upon Finland and Poland will not be lessened by the consideration that the object has become more easily attainable. Neither has the German Empire developed any higher degree of international scrupulousness than belonged to the kingdom of Prussia and the Frankfurt Diet under the instigation of Bismarck, at this time they despoiled Denmark.

"It is to be feared that Norway will have cause long to rue the action which Norway has taken."

Subject to correction, the World withdraws from the list of negligent ex-dummy directors of the Equitable the name of Cornelius N. Bliss. If Mr. Bliss wished the Frick report to be complete in its revelations, and if at 72 he was ready to put up his life and fight for his opinion, he was the kind of director the Equitable needed and still needs.—The World.

"By a treaty just signed at Managua, Great Britain has once more 'given up' the Mosquito coast to Nicaraguan sovereignty," says the Press. "This time it really does seem as if that had been accomplished which the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the treaty of Managua of 1890 were expected to accomplish."

"The Monroe Doctrine and the United States gunboats have for half a century been invoked at intervals in the muddled affairs of the Mosquito coast, and after all our annoyance and expense it is far from gratifying to learn that in return for her latest 'relinquishment' England gets from Nicaragua a commercial treaty which gives her trade advantages over the United States."

Deposing a King is always good business. These ought not to be any more Kings, and the chief folly committed by the patriotic Norwegians was in suggesting that a young Prince of the royal house be selected to ascend the throne. Surely this is the time for them to get rid of young and old Princes, of Kings, thrones and hereditary monarchs generally.—The American.

Steaming Out Splinters. When a splinter has been driven into the hand it can be extracted by steam. Fill a wide-mouthed bottle nearly full of hot water, place the injured part over the mouth and press it slightly. The action thus produced will draw the splinter down, and in a minute or two the steam will extract the splinter, also the inflammation. Try it and be convinced.—National Magazine for June.

Illustrated Language Lessons No. 20.

Lay-Lie. A POST-DISPATCH reader suggested the above words as the subject for one of these lessons. He could not have chosen one more difficult to elucidate.

This will be clear when we say that nearly two columns in the Standard Dictionary are devoted to meanings and illustrations of the word lay, while lie occupies nearly a full column.

The compound error involving the misuse of these two words is in such phrases as "he laid down," meaning, he placed himself in a reclining position. Dickens called attention to this error in a letter to Collins: "There is one slight slip, occurring more than once, which you have not corrected. M. e. g. d. i. n. 'laid down,' and I think

"NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP." It is clear that she must either lay herself down, or lie down. To lay is a verb active, and to lie down is a verb neuter; consequently she lay down, or laid herself down.

"There will be clearer if, instead of using the words 'active' and 'neuter' we say that the verb lay is transitive, and the verb lie is intransitive. This means that in lay the action passes on to an object acted upon—to lay bricks, to lay eggs, to lay plans, to lay burdens on the people, to lay traps on the floor, to lay cities in ashes. Lie is intransitive; that is, its action does not pass on. The verb is complete in itself.

The past tense of lie is lay, not laid. The past tense of lay is lain. "The pen has lain on the desk for a week." "Now I lay me down to sleep," says the child, and this use of lay is correct. It would be incorrect, in the morning, to say "I laid down last night." As the past of lie is lay, we should say, "I lay down last night," that is, I did lie down; or "I laid myself down," that is, I put myself in a reclining position.

But "laid down" is correct when speaking of the law, rules, principles for guidance, burdens, etc. "I laid down the law," "the judge laid down the law." "In the Scriptures certain rules are laid down for our use," etc.

The only practical way to attain to the correct use of these two words is by reading the works of the best authors and noting carefully how they make use of them. Bible reading is excellent as an unconscious developer of correct language. Read how Gen. Joshua told his soldiers to lie in wait in order to capture the city of Jericho. "Lay a great multitude of important folk," and so on. "Reading," said Bacon, "maketh a full man." And reading good English is the best corrective of one's errors in language.

at church and invites him to a musicale at her home.

CHAPTER IV.
A Bold Campaigner.

MORPHY will never forget the night of Miss Lindon's musicale. He wore his Sunday suit and found all the other gentlemen in conventional evening clothes. He had either sublime self-confidence or utter absence of self-consciousness, as you may be pleased to put it. Social observances that differed from those of the country in which he was reared did not attract his notice; he took into the St. Louis drawing room the simple, heartiness and mode of the people of Benton. He had, however, grown sensitive on the subject of attire and when he found that he was conspicuously different in attire his armor was pierced—his aplomb disappeared.

Miss Lindon distinguished him vainly. She tried artfully to draw him into a conversation on shoes, but he was not responsive. Only when Mr. Allen, wearied of the chatter and music, drew Morphy away to a palm-hidden nook fit for lovers and asked his ideas on the best method of increasing sales of men's $2.50 shoes, did he approach a measure of comfortable self-respect.

He went forth from that nook into the night, without bidding his hostesses farewell, and damned society with many an expletive. The next day he bought dress clothes and a manuscript of social forms.

Otherwise he prospered. The two retail stores in North St. Louis grew to six and four were established in other parts of the city. All were under his charge, and as they grew in business, his credit grew. He was known now as the manager of the retail department, a division of the business held in small repute by the strong men of the house or only measure in local territory. As a protection against the complaints of retailers, that Henderson-Allyn were doing business outside their legitimate sphere the retail branches were conducted under the names of the managers, who were given a commission interest in sales.

Hard as he found the work of managing these branches Morphy signed for new worlds. "We're a little old-fashioned," he told Mr. Allen when asked for ideas on the pushing of sales in men's $2.50 shoes. "The old men knock the retail branch idea and we advertise in spasms. If the branch idea is good in St. Louis it is good out of St. Louis. If it pays to advertise at all, it will pay better to have a regular campaign of advertising. We must educate the people and then the dealers will have to carry our line."

The earliest issue of his suggestion was an order from Mr. Allen transferring Morphy from management of the branches in the city. He was sent South to sell goods in a territory that had been unproductive. "You need experience on the road," his chief told him, and he accepted the new assignment with delight and yet he set forth trembling for his credit in the concern. It was unfounded fear. His experience was sufficient to insure success when coupled with the energy he habitually applied to his tasks.

The detail of the road, tricks for the gaining of comfort, methods of shaving expense and getting the best results out of train schedules he learned rapidly, being thirsty for information and never ashamed of his ignorance in the presence of old road men who might inform him.

His first trip was not a wonder for a steady increase that gratified his chief if it did not bring praise. Mr. Allen was ever ready of praise. He looked for weakness and commented on these unpardonably.

A telegram reached Morphy in Memphis. "Lafell, Cairo, owes $375, due today. Asks extension 30 days. Refused. Go to Cairo and get the money."

Lafell met Morphy at the store door next morning. He was an early riser, but Morphy had not slept and was there before him. The window display was poor for a first-class Cairo department store. Peering through the windows Morphy estimated that the place was well-stocked. If failure impended, the only sign was in the depleted windows.

Morphy introduced himself and stated his business.

Lafell's face wrinkled to his eyes. The beard that mounted to his eyes.

"I can't pay," he said. "My creditors are pressing me. If they will give me time I will pay."

Morphy sought a lawyer and papers were prepared for an attachment, but before they could get action a mortgage for $2000 was recorded and a trustee was in charge.

"The stock isn't worth $7000," Lafell told the indignant shoe salesman in confidence. "But if you'll settle for 50 per cent I think I can get the money and my other creditors will let me go on."

"Settle nothing. We want our money and we're going to have it," cried Morphy. "Henderson-Allyn never compromise."

Lafell's black beard undulated, for he was smiling, and he spread his hands, palms upward, in disdain.

Morphy bluffed, although he saw no way to collect. Conference between his lawyer and Lafell's advisor led to nothing and he went to his hotel at night disheartened.

Some youths were playing pool in the billiard room. He watched the game, idly and heard scraps of their conversation. They spoke of Lafell and he was instantly alert.

"When did you get through?" one asked. "Three o'clock this morning," the other answered. "Had to verify my footings three times to satisfy Judge Miller. Then he would like to have gone through the whole blessed inventory again. Killing job. Had to check up invoices and sales and stock sheets till I was blind. See that bum shot. I tell you I can't see the balls."

"What's the stock worth?" "Total cost $16,968. We scaled it 10 per cent. Needn't scale it at all, though. It's all new. There isn't a pin's worth 18 months old, and 99 per cent of it was bought within six months. Foxey Lafell is up to some dirty game, you bet."

Morphy commented on a shot made by one of the players and, finding them amiable, continued to talk. Presently he bought a drink, which led to very amiable conversation, and before they slept Morphy was in possession of much intimate detail gleaned from these clerks of the Lafell store.

He took the earliest train for St. Louis and laid the facts before Mr. Allen.

"Lafell has a $17,000 stock and owes about $14,000, exclusive of our account," he said. "The mortgage is his brother-in-law and they expect to buy in the stock for about $7000. They want an early sale under the foreclosure and have already arranged for it. When the sale comes off I want to go back with $10,000 and buy the stock. They won't be prepared to bid that high and I'll get it. We can't lose."

Mr. Allen and Mr. Pell approved his scheme and on the day of the sale he was again in Cairo carrying $10,000 in New York exchange, which he deposited in the National Bank.

"Lafell greeted him genially when he entered the store and introduced him to several gentlemen who were there. "The mortgage will buy in the stock," he announced, "and I shall be permitted to resume business. It would have been better if you had accepted my proposition."

"No," said Morphy. "We never compromise. We'll get our money yet, a full 100 per cent."

The sale opened with an announcement by the sheriff and a call for bids. Lafell's brother-in-law, a farmer unaccustomed to business, was represented by Lafell's attorney, who bid $5000.

Morphy raised him a thousand dollars.

"We are prepared to pay the full value of the stock," Judge Miller announced.

"On behalf of the mortgage I bid $7000."

"Eight thousand," said Morphy.

Lafell's party exchanged startled glances and conferred in whispers.

"Eight thousand, one hundred," said Judge Miller.

"Nine thousand," said Morphy.

Judge Miller crossed the room to Morphy. "May I ask what you are willing to give—your highest bid?" he said.

"The full value of the stock," said Morphy, coldly.

"Your bid already exceeds the full value. Are you buying for yourself? Does your house understand the situation?"

Morphy laughed and did not reply.

"I protest against accepting this gentleman's bid," shouted the lawyer. "We know nothing of his financial ability."

All eyes were upon Morphy and none had noticed the entrance of Col. Hargous, President of the National Bank.

"What's that, sir?" shouted the Colonel.

"This gentleman's financial ability is good, sir. I guarantee his bid. Yes, sir, I guarantee all his bids."

Lafell shrugged his shoulders and lifted his hands, palms upward, admitting defeat. He was not prepared to meet the bid and the stock was knocked down to Morphy at $9000.

He had triumphed in the first act and he instantly set about the completion of his task. He contracted for pages of advertising in the local papers and ordered flaming signs to cover the front of the store.

Lafell's had long been the rival of the Busy Bee, a more conservatively conducted but more firmly established store.

Col. Hargous introduced Morphy to the Isaacsons, who owned the Busy Bee.

"I want to sell a stock of dry goods, millinery, clothing and shoes. Morphy told the Isaacsons. "It inventories at $17,000 and it's all new. You can have it for $10,500 cash today. If you won't buy, I'll have to display it at a loss."

He wasted no time on subtleties. The men he addressed understood the damage such a sale as he would conduct would work their trade. They also appreciated the bargain he offered. Before the day ended the deal was completed, and the Busy Bee was in possession of Lafell's, the signs advertising contracts.

The play was ended and the curtain fell on Morphy's final triumph. He had turned a $75 loss into $1200 cash, without touching a cent of the $10,000 fund banked with Col. Hargous.

In reply to his telegram reporting success Mr. Allen wired:

"Get back on your trip and increase sales. Push the new ladies, but don't let up on men's two-fifties."

He knew Mr. Allen's methods thoroughly, yet in his elation this telegram was like a douche of cold water.

Before he left Cairo, however, a package of mail reached him and in it was a note from Miss Lindon.

"I haven't seen you for an age," she wrote. "Come and see me as soon as you reach St. Louis. I have a business proposition that I hope you will like."

Three years were gone since the musicale and in one way or another he had seen much of her. Under her elder-sisterly tutelage some of his rough edges vanished and his ideals broadened.

He thought of her with affection, but brotherly, not lovingly. He wondered what business proposition she might contemplate and, smarting from Mr. Allen's lack of appreciation, hoped that it would enable him to leave the Henderson-Allyn concern.

WOMAN'S BORROWED TRESSES.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

It is to Paris, as the center of the trade in hair, that England and the whole world looks for the enrichment or replacement of its thinning or vanished tresses. In most countries on the continent the peasant girls and women wear old-time caps, under which their hair is completely covered, both indoors and out, so that without loss to their own good looks they dispose of their veiled glory for the adornment of their valuer sisters. It is at this season of the year that the coiffeurs, or merchants in human hair, begin their peripatetic harvest, which extends to September. At all the country fairs and village feasts they pitch their booths and proffer their trinkets, cheap finery or hard cash for heads of hair. At Morlans, in the Lower Pyrenees, this was a striking feature of the fair held on St. John's Day. Young girls and women stood in rows with their hair hanging down their backs, all combed and brushed, inviting the inspection of the coiffeurs. Now this public exhibition is forbidden, and the merchants erect tents or rent a room or a shop, or, as in Brittany, go from house to house seeking customers and proclaiming their trade by a twist of hair tied to a staff.

The most beautiful heads of hair, for color and quality combined, come from Brittany and Normandy, while Belgium furnishes the finest flaxen. Italian hair is either very dark or a glowing red, but despite its great length it is so coarse as to be little esteemed. The dark browns and blacks are supplied from France and Portugal and the blond and golden tresses from Holland and Germany. From four to thirty shillings a pound is the price paid by the merchant, according to the color, quantity and quality of the hair. The most costly is a snowy white, which is so rare that it commands it pounds an ounce, and even at that price it is so uncommon that it has to be blended with imitation, and an entire wig of absolutely natural white hair is unknown. At the last Paris Exposition a beautiful plate of golden hair, measuring 2 metres 50 centimetres, commanded great attention. This wonderful hair belonged to a young Normandy girl, who, to pay a family debt, sold it to a hairdresser for 30 francs. He in turn sold it to a Parisian coiffeur for 1000 francs, who received three times as much for it from a famous society

He in turn sold it to a Parisian coiffeur for 1000 francs, who received three times as much for it from a famous society of the hair, that England and the whole world looks for the enrichment or replacement of its thinning or vanished tresses. In most countries on the continent the peasant girls and women wear old-time caps, under which their hair is completely covered, both indoors and out, so that without loss to their own good looks they dispose of their veiled glory for the adornment of their valuer sisters. It is at this season of the year that the coiffeurs, or merchants in human hair, begin their peripatetic harvest, which extends to September. At all the country fairs and village feasts they pitch their booths and proffer their trinkets, cheap finery or hard cash for heads of hair. At Morlans, in the Lower Pyrenees, this was a striking feature of the fair held on St. John's Day. Young girls and women stood in rows with their hair hanging down their backs, all combed and brushed, inviting the inspection of the coiffeurs. Now this public exhibition is forbidden, and the merchants erect tents or rent a room or a shop, or, as in Brittany, go from house to house seeking customers and proclaiming their trade by a twist of hair tied to a staff.

The most beautiful heads of hair, for color and quality combined, come from Brittany and Normandy, while Belgium furnishes the finest flaxen. Italian hair is either very dark or a glowing red, but despite its great length it is so coarse as to be little esteemed. The dark browns and blacks are supplied from France and Portugal and the blond and golden tresses from Holland and Germany. From four to thirty shillings a pound is the price paid by the merchant, according to the color, quantity and quality of the hair. The most costly is a snowy white, which is so rare that it commands it pounds an ounce, and even at that price it is so uncommon that it has to be blended with imitation, and an entire wig of absolutely natural white hair is unknown. At the last Paris Exposition a beautiful plate of golden hair, measuring 2 metres 50 centimetres, commanded great attention. This wonderful hair belonged to a young Normandy girl, who, to pay a family debt, sold it to a hairdresser for 30 francs. He in turn sold it to a Parisian coiffeur for 1000 francs, who received three times as much for it from a famous society

AL THE NEWS OF THE WORLD

BOSS DREYFUSS' BETS FOR THE BROWNS

Giants' President Declares Pittsburger and McGraw Clashed Over Wager.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 8.—John T. Brush, President of the New York Exhibition Co., the owners of the Giants, called for all the sporting editors of the Pittsburgh papers to meet him at the Monongahela House Wednesday night and there for the first time he made public the entire testimony of the Boston session as reported by the stenographers.

Mr. Brush said he submitted his notes in support of his contention that Barney Dreyfuss had been betting heavily on the result of the present race between New York and Pittsburgh, and it was regarding one of those bets that McGraw and Dreyfuss are alleged to have come together in New York.

Mr. Brush maintained that one bet made between Dreyfuss and another Pittsburgh man on the New York-Pittsburgh result aggregated about $12,000, on which Dreyfuss had the short end at odds of 7 to 4. Brush showed the testimony of Dreyfuss in Boston, in which he admitted having made a bet with the Pittsburgh man in question.

Brush also gave out a signed reply to President Pulliam's statement of Tuesday, in which he said that "any player removed by an umpire for a violation of the playing rules during the game on May 19, the fined $10 by the president of the league for that removal, and if, in addition thereto, the player so removed be suspended by the president of the league, said suspension shall carry with it a fine of $10 for each subsequent day so suspended."

Mr. McGraw was not removed from the game by the umpire on May 19, the day that he was charged with offending Dreyfuss, and unless he was, Pulliam could not have suspended him under the rule. He did not occur, but the president and Board of Directors absolutely refused to hear or consider them. McGraw personally begged the board to listen to a statement, but it refused to do so. The player is not the only individual for whom laws should be made.

SEMI-FINALS FOR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Matches This Afternoon Determine Final Contestants for the Local Honor.

Pairings in Semi-Finals.

Ralph McKittick, Country, vs. W. Arthur Stickney, Country.
Jesse Carleton, Glen Echo, vs. Clay Pierce, Country.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
Ralph McKittick defeated Stewart Stickney, 3 up 2.
Arthur Stickney defeated S. L. Swartz, 6 up 5.
Jesse Carleton defeated Harry Foster, 2 up.
Clay Pierce defeated John O. Ballard, 3 up 1.

Semi-finals in the golf tournament for the city championship will be played Thursday afternoon on the links of the St. Louis Country Club. Of the four players still in the race, three are members of the Clayton organization and one represents the Glen Echo Club.

Probably the most exciting match of the afternoon will be that between Ralph McKittick and Arthur Stickney. Both players have done excellently thus far in the tourney and indications point to the winner of today's match as the local golf champion for 1905.

Jesse Carleton of the Glen Echo will meet Clay Pierce today. Carleton will be playing in good form and he holds a one chance for being a competitor in the final Saturday.

The surprise of yesterday's play was the defeat of Stewart Stickney, twice winner of the championship cup, and favorite for the tourney and his only excuse for being defeated was that he was playing his opponent, Stickney was way off in his putts, however, and though his driving was good, he has played a better game than he has ever, did not save him from a bombardment by the Chicago Nationals Wednesday.

The other championship resulted in a victory for Clay Pierce over John O. Ballard. The championship matches will be played Friday. The players will rest up and contest in the final Saturday afternoon.

Princeton Beat Bucknell.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PRINCETON, N. J., June 8.—Princeton defeated Bucknell yesterday by a score of 8 to 1. The game was the last one before the final Yale game, which was played in rain that prevented the game from being as good as it might have been. Doyle, who pitched for Princeton, was in fine form, giving but four hits and striking out eleven men.

The Kirkwood P. O.'s would like to arrange a game for Sunday, June 11, with some team playing in the 15 and 16 years old class. Address Edward McKee, Webster avenue and Clinton place, Kirkwood, Mo.

SECOND GAME WITH PHILADELPHIA TODAY

After Losing Opening Game, Bad Weather Threatens St. Louis Team.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. LOUIS, June 8.—"More fearful weather," said Manager McAleer today, "I can't remember when I was ever here before and we did not have some bad weather. Don't like the looks of things now. Don't look like a game today."

"Just say for me that Mr. Umpire Tom Connolly just lost the game for us. Parent never touched second in the fourth inning when Boston made its rally and that gave Boston its opening. Talk about hard luck, I guess Boston won't be lucky to pull off that game. Make all their hits in one inning while we made nine."

Fred Glade said he was not stuck on going into the box today, but would do the best at his command and said he was feeling pretty well for a cold day.

Peculiarly enough, yesterday Stone made a strike and scored the only run in the game, while Burkett drove in one run and scored the one that gave his team the game and lost it for St. Louis. Stone also made a capture that was a warm article.

The neat outfield of the Browns sized up very well indeed and it is the general impression among the critics that the team is one to look out for.

Collins has benched Freeman temporarily. He will see how it will turn out to play Smith in right field under the rule.

IDEAL WEATHER FOR CARDINALS' GAME

Large Weekday Crowd Attends in Expectation of Seeing Thielman Against Quakers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEAGUE PARK, June 8.—Today's Cardinals-Quakers game was played in weather conditions that were ideal for an exhibition of the great national game.

The crowd was a large one for a weekday, mostly drawn by the presumption that Thielman would pitch for St. Louis. Hugh Duffy was out again in uniform and he kept his players hustling during the preliminary practice.

Danny Shay several times electrified the spectators by some great stops and lightning throws and was loudly cheered.

Burke had his men practicing the bunting game before play was called, and it was a novel sight to see the Cardinals drop a ball in front of the plate and race to beat an imaginary throw.

Burke was expected to day, had not reported at game time.
